*To Elevate Survivors Towards
Their New Identity in Christ.*

5 Years of Rescue, Recovery and Relentless Commitment...

Since launching operations in 2021, Invisible Angels has transformed the landscape of survivor rescue and transportation across the United States. What began as a small, aviation-based support effort has grown into a national lifeline for survivors, safe homes, and law enforcement agencies that rely on rapid, trauma-informed air transportation.

What began with a single six-passenger aircraft has grown into a nationwide transportation network. Because many survivors lack the identification required for commercial travel, we were once limited to our private aircraft, greatly restricting our reach. Today, our reach is practically unlimited. Invisible Angels now coordinates directly with the Department of Transportation, TSA, Federal Air Marshals, and Homeland Security, escorting survivors and their trauma-informed victim advocates through airport security without traditional identification requirements. Access to major U.S. commercial carriers is essential, as approximately 95% of our missions involve cross-country travel for a survivor's safety and security. It also allows us to reserve our private aircraft for shorter missions and destinations not easily served by commercial airlines, helping us transport more survivors to safety quickly and efficiently.

Over the past five years, Invisible Angels has completed more than 100 urgent rescue flights. We have also supported complex investigations, flown survivors to court to testify against traffickers, delivered advocates to survivors' locations, and helped survivors share their stories on national stages. Each mission reinforces one life-saving truth: fast, safe transportation saves lives.

Our work has also contributed to significant law enforcement outcomes, including a 50-year prison sentence in one of Alabama's most disturbing sextortion cases. In that investigation, Invisible Angels provided immediate air transportation to law enforcement so they could interview a survivor whose testimony was essential to the case.

Our impact extends beyond aviation. This year alone, through our clothing ministry and partnerships with Tommy Hilfiger, Cabi, Calvin Klein, Brooks Brothers, Nautica, and Lucky Brand, we distributed more than 3,000 pieces of brand-new clothing to safe homes and rescue organizations throughout Florida and the southeast.

Invisible Angels is making an impact, but we want more than impact...

We want lasting change.

On demand air transportation is only the beginning. Through our planned micro-scholarship program, survivors will have access to education, vocational training, and career development in any area they choose. These opportunities will not only help survivors build independent futures, they will provide new identities defined by strength, purpose, and endless possibilities creating lasting, permanent change.

Today, demand for our services is growing dramatically. More safe homes, rescue organizations, and law enforcement agencies are relying on Invisible Angels for rapid-response transportation and survivor support. To meet this need, and fund our micro-scholarship program, our annual budget must grow from approximately $600,000 today to $1.5 million in 2027.

Every mission is conducted with compassion, safety, and dignity. Survivors travel with trained, trauma-informed advocates who provide stability and emotional support. When needed, we have even transported survivors with their dogs, preserving an important source of comfort during a life-changing transition. We believe healing begins the moment a survivor knows they are no longer alone.

Your support is not only providing urgent rescue flights, essential clothing, and educational opportunities, you are providing the keys to a new identity and a new future. You are funding our mission which is to...

Educational Micro Scholarships

Annual Budget: $187,500

Each rescue that Invisible Angels undertakes comes with a cost of about $3,000. When you consider the true value of a human life, that dollar figure becomes almost meaningless. Each mission is more than just a financial cost; it's a step toward elevating survivors into their new identity in Christ. As our survivor profoundly said, 'I don't know what price you would put on a human life, but if you could see me before and if you could see me now, I think you'd agree it's worth it.'

Our vision goes beyond the rescue. We will foster survivors' transformation with scholarships, giving them the training and opportunities they need to step into a new future. We are asking you to transform and uplift an individual's life. I am sure you will agree it is worth whatever amount you choose to invest.
